- Actively participate in national and European regulatory committees, regulatory organizations, working groups and more
- Oversee work on the Company's contribution to regulatory position papers and guidance documents, at UK and EU level
- Strategically develop an international network of contacts crossing regulatory agencies, Notified bodies, industry etc - to build influence and advance company interests

Your responsibilities

Internally facing:

- Ensure that policy developments and changes are communicated internally
- Prioritise and distribute information (training, draft guidances etc) to necessary internal partners and work cross functionally to ensure staff are appraised and updated
- Contribute to executive management reports to ensure company leadership has oversight

Requirements

- A career in the medical device industry
- Working experience in
 - a) a competent authority OR
 - b) a regulatory/policy role in industry OR
 - c) an externally facing role in a Notified Body
- Professional influencing, advocacy and negotiation skills
- Willingness to be highly visible, confident at speaking up in important meetings, and confident speaking in front of a crowd.
- Able to command attention and interest through strong communication skills
